

Macroeconomics syllabus readings

The macroeconomics on-line course has 24 modules, posted on sub-forums in the macroeconomics course. Syllabus readings, homework assignments, and practice problems are posted for each module in its forum.

The practice problems are also posted on the final exam forum. The practice exam questions sub-forum has questions (with solutions) from past final exams.

Students enrolled in the macroeconomics course may post comments and questions on the discussion forum. The macroeconomics course instructor replies to all student questions. The postings are updated periodically to include answers to student questions and current economic events.

To receive VEE credit for the course, you must receive a grade of 70% or higher on the final exam and you must complete 80% or more of the homework assignments. If you do not pass the final exam, or if you defer taking the final exam, you may take the exam again for no additional charge.

Some students complete the homework assignments while working through the modules and then email them to NEAS when they finish the course. Other students first work through the practice problems and take the exam, and then work through the homework assignments. The completed homework assignments should be emailed to vee-hw-neas@verizon.net
